

THIS MONTH'S FEATURED TITLES

CROWDER

What was originally an idea formed from a stunning image of a steeple on the horizon comes the long-awaited solo debut from critically revered artist and worship leader Crowder. The release of Neon Steeple continues to highlight Crowder's knack for innovative songwriting. Among the new tracks is the record's lead single "I Am" as well as a duet with Emmylou Harris on "My Sweet Lord." "Neon Steeple is a collection of songs and sounds looking forward to the past and counting the present as sacred," remarks Crowder. "It is a longing for belonging, a search for home. It is the sound of the Appalachians and Ibiza. Folk music and EDM. The music of the People. Folktronica. Digital and Analog."

GUARANTEED MUSIC:
Try the new album by Crowder.
If you don't love it, exchange it for another CD title.

MICHAEL W. SMITH SOVEREIGN

MICHAEL W. SMITH

Since his debut album over 30 years ago, Michael W. Smith has been one of Christian music's premiere artists. In 2001 he released his very first worship album, although he was no stranger to worship music having penned such classics as "Agnus Dei", "Great Is The Lord" and "How Majestic Is Your Name". Sovereign marks his return to a full worship album (his fourth) and is available in both a CD and deluxe edition with a DVD featuring guest appearances from Kari Jobe and Leeland Mooring of the band Leeland. In commenting about the album Michael says "I'm enjoying making music more than I ever have in my entire life. I'm having fun and I'm excited about this record and this next chapter."